- Credibility of Models – Divora Kusmerski Bilard
- Scientific quality criteria – Emma Boumans
- Doubt and Scientific Consensus – Sabina Leonelli
- Narratives and Science Fiction – Marcel Boumans
- Money laundering and tax avoidance/evasion – Peter Gerbrands
- Legislation and Criminology – Hanna Deleanu

12:00 Lunch break
13:30 Future collaboration
    Introducer: Marnix De Witte
15:30 End of the workshop

For every session, we will have

- One ‘introducer’ for the topic. This will be a participant whose expertise is closest or most representative of the session’s theme. S/he opens the discussion by introducing and motivating the questions s/he thinks are most relevant to consider. This well be prepared well in advance of the workshop together with the workshop organisers. We will ask the introducer what kind of literature is most relevant – and so will be part of a common knowledge resource which will be distributed well ahead of the workshop.
- Two commentators who provide brief comments on the topic from their own perspective. For this task we will also approach those whose expertise sufficiently overlaps most with the theme’s domain expertise.
- One ‘scribe’ tasked with taking notes from the session and then, together with the introducer and the commentators, with creating a brief presentation to be given on the Friday morning (last day) in order to get discussion started about that particular topic.
