

Programme

The workshop will take place in a hybrid environment with the online talks scheduled for the first three days of the meeting. The talks will be given in the afternoon in order to accommodate for participants located in different time-zones. We aim to have a small number of participants present at the Lorentz center partaking in working groups and giving local (impromptu) presentations. With that in mind we schedule the program in a way that leaves plenty of room for discussions and work in groups. To steer the discussion, working groups will be formed the first day. Participants are encouraged to propose topics before or during the workshop. The working groups will report on their findings at the end of the workshop.
